

ABSTRACT

- A ventilation interface and system is described which can be adapted to be connected to a source of ventilation. The ventilation interface and system includes an exhaust port positioned at a midpoint between at least two ventilation connectors.
- 5 The ventilation interface system may optionally include feed tubes, y-connector, tube holder, and headgear.